PARCEL POST MAIL IS BEING ROBBED

P. O. Detectives Unable Yet To Locate Who's Opening Packages Out Of Richmond

Mysterious robbery of parcel post packages out of the Richmond post-office is baffling government secret service men and other officials.

So far as can be learned, the only packages robbed are those consigned to points north of Richmond. No matter what trains they are sent out on, it is understood that the opening of packages has been found to continue. It is understood that postal inspectors and detectives are almost at their wits' end.

Deer packages have been sent out and careful watch made on them, but several of them have been robbed and still the authorities are without a clue as to where and how it was done. A dummy package, sent the other day, contained a lot of women's lingerie and a dress. When it arrived at its destination, the dress was missing. It is understood that out of 100 packages on which check was made within the past few days, 42 were found to have been tampered with.

Several prominent people of Madison county have lost valuable articles recently. Mrs. T. D. Chenault, Jr., sent a costly dress to her sister, Mrs. Emerson Gwynne, at Baltimore, Md. a short time ago. It has not yet arrived. Others reporting constant loss of articles, mostly wearing apparel, caused the post office department to get busy. Detectives and inspectors were put to work but so far they apparently have been unable to find a clue. Some think that in view of the fact that the articles stolen from packages are mostly women's wearing apparel, that the thief must be supplying a second hand store somewhere.

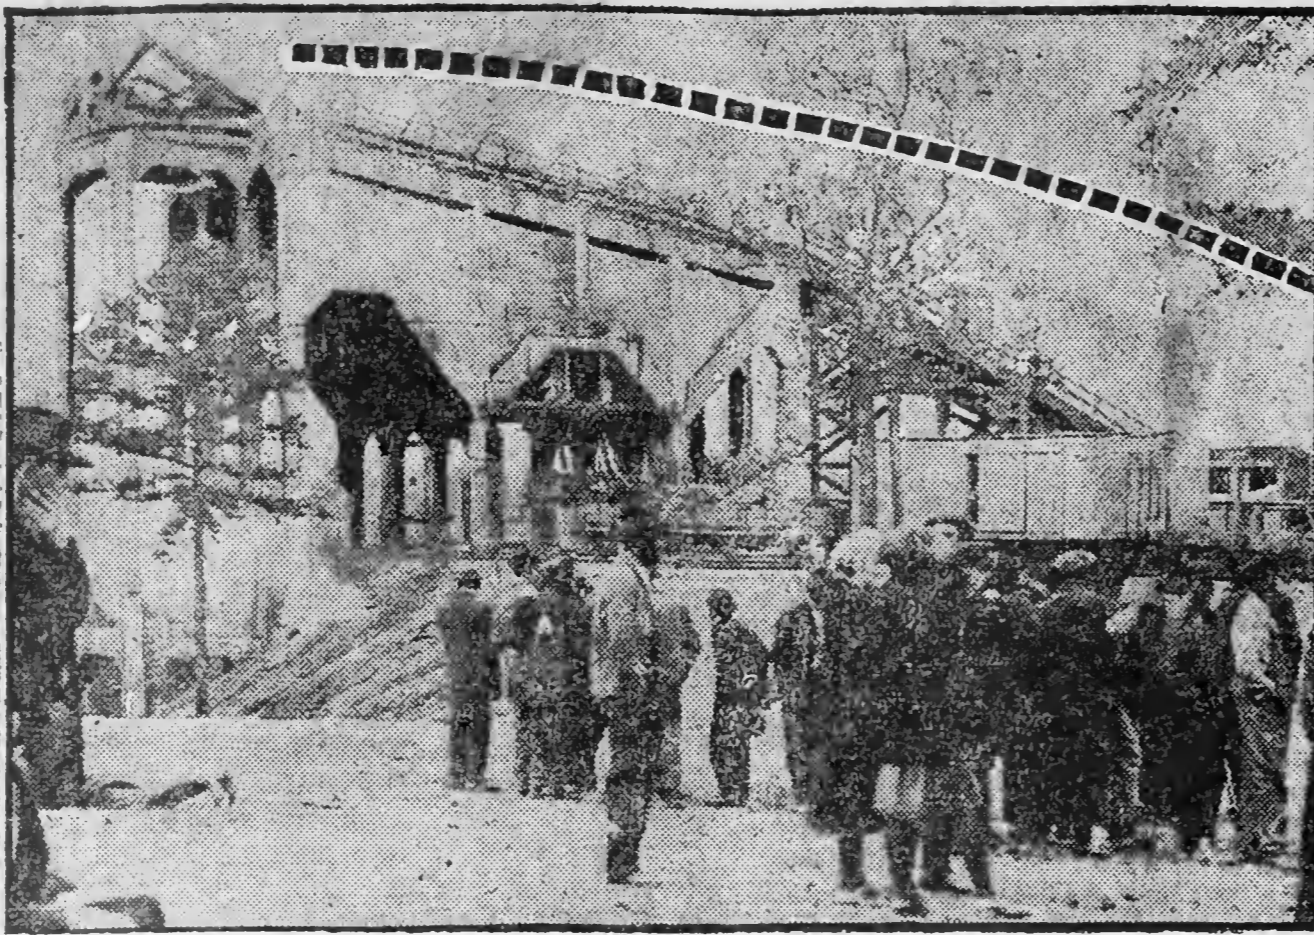

It is understood that many of the packages that have been found tampered with are discovered in that condition shortly after passing Winchester. It is said that there is some delay in mail addressed to eastern points in making connection with eastern bound C. & O. mail carrying trains at that point. Mail from here sent to eastern addresses, mainly goes to Winchester, on the L. & N. and then is transferred after some wait to the C. & O. Whether it is possible for the parcel post mail to be tampered with while waiting at the Winchester depot to be transferred is said to be one of the lines of investigation being followed by the government inspectors. While much of the mail robbed is insured parcel post, it is understood that such mail is not put in locked pouches, but merely in the usual canvas pouches with draw rope, which may be easily opened.

FREAK EXPLOSION SPREADS DEATH AND HORROR IN ALABAMA MINE

Eighty-four miners were killed by a freak explosion in the Dolomite coal mine, Birmingham, Ala. The dotted line shows the course of the dump cars which broke away, tore down the tippie and after going down the 800-foot incline, crashed into the yard below. Great clouds of coal dust arose. A high-tension electric cable severed at the crash and ignited the dust. In the terrific explosion, 40 men were killed outright at the foot of the tippie. Deadly after-damp accounted for the remainder of the victims.

KILL MAN AND CUT BODY ON TRACKS

Danville, Ky., Nov. 27—Three negroes shot and killed Mitchell Neal, 26, white, of Oneida, Tennessee, Sunday 20 miles south of here, laid the body on the Southern railroad track apparently hoping a passing train would obliterate evidence of the murder. Neal was found by a neighbor who heard the shots and saw the negroes fleeing. Still conscious, he said the negroes robbed him of $27 and shot him. He died on the way to the hospital here. Three negro suspects were arrested at Somerset. Neal was visiting here and strolled down the track.

THIS BIRD STAYS ON FRONT PAGE

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 27—Professor John P. Tiernan and his first wife were closeted with their attorneys here today in an endeavor to unravel the legal tangle which they hoped would result in being reunited. Tiernan last week was granted a divorce from his wife and married Mrs. Blanche Brimmer. The court set aside the divorce decree and Tiernan came here and begged his wife to take him back. Meanwhile, Mrs. Brimmer, Tiernan, who told Tiernan she was not sure she was divorced from a former husband, returned to her home at Marshallton, Iowa. Tiernan recently sought to fasten the paternity of the youngest of his wife's children upon Harry Paulin, a South Bend business man.

WALLEN PUTS NEW NORMAL AT MOREHEAD

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 27—Morehead was selected as the site for the new normal school for Eastern Kentucky at a meeting of the normal school commission here Saturday.

On the sixth ballot, W. S. Wallen, of Prestonsburg, who had been holding out for Paintsville, in the previous balloting, cast the deciding vote, giving the school to Morehead by a majority of 5 to 3.

The first few ballots stood 4 to 4, the deadlock between Morehead and Paintsville of the previous meetings apparently showing little possibility of being broken.

The final vote which selected the site was as follows: Morehead—O'Rear, Goodpastor, Welton, Senf, Combs; Paintsville—Peter, Barrett and Harman.

West Liberty was on hand with a large delegation, expecting, it was said, to step in and secure the school for Morgan county in the event of another deadlock. The voting centered on Paintsville and Morehead as in the previous meetings.

The five men of Central and Eastern Kentucky named by Speaker Thompson were the ones who voted for the selection of Murray in a meeting September 1, and who gave the Eastern normal school to Morehead Saturday.

Tiernan Returns To His First Wife

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 27—Another sensational angle in the marital relations of Prof. John P. Tiernan and Mrs. Augusta Tiernan, principals in the Paulin paternity case, developed Sunday when the professor, whose decree of divorce from Mrs. Tiernan was invalidated Saturday by the local superior court, following his marriage to Mrs. Blanche Brimmer, returned here and effected a reconciliation with the first Mrs. Tiernan.

Professor Tiernan, in a statement here last night, said he and Mrs. Tiernan had agreed to "patch up their troubles." He also said he had agreed to recognize the baby "Billy" over whose paternity the recent Paulin-Tiernan case arose, as his son.

Mr. Tiernan said his Crown Point, Ind., marriage Saturday was the result of mental "intoxication." He said he and Mrs. Tiernan would drop all action looking to reopening the paternity case against Harry Paulin.

Mrs. Paul Burnam, chairman of the students of Eastern Normal Friday morning at chapel when she sang Heine's famous poem "Die Lorelei." Her dramatic interpretation was excellent, as was the piano accompaniment by Miss Brown E. Telford. Mrs. Burnam told the story of this famous German folk legend, gave a word of interpretation which made it more enjoyable to those who were not as familiar with it as were the lovers of the old German music. For encores Mrs. Burnam sang two attractive children's songs which appealed greatly to her student audience.

McQUEEN'S MOTHER WARNS YOUNG MEN

(By Associated Press)

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 27—A warning to the youth of Kentucky to beware of "moonshine and bad company" was given here by Mrs. Easter McQueen, of Rockcastle county, mother of 17-year-old Steve McQueen, now under sentence of death for the murder of Isaac Coyle, of Rockcastle county.

"I would like to tell every boy in the state to leave moonshine whisky alone and to keep away from older men who are breaking the law," said Mrs. McQueen. "You never know where a boy will end when he starts that kind of life. My son is just a plain, mountain boy and he did not know what he was doing at the time he killed Coyle," she declared.

Mrs. McQueen, carrying her son's picture in a battered hand bag, has been at the capitol seeking an interview with Governor Morrow. She said that she felt sure the Governor would commute her son's sentence to life imprisonment when he understood all the facts in the case.

McQueen and another mountain man, it was testified at the trial, had been operating a moonshine still. McQueen, it was said, managed the still and his partner sold the produce. They had some trouble with Coyle on whose place the still was operated, and there were threats made that the revenue officers would be notified. During the trouble Coyle was shot and killed. McQueen's companion who was said to have been implicated in the shooting, was sentenced to life imprisonment and McQueen was sentenced to death in the electric chair at Fiddlyville.

McQueen's case was taken to the Court of Appeals and the finding of the lower court was sustained.

Mrs. McQueen on her visit to the capitol, carried a petition signed by members of the jury and court officials asking that McQueen's sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

TOBACCO BRINGS SATISFACTORY PRICE

Opening Sale On Richmond Independent Market Attended
By Many Buyers

Richmond's independent tobacco market opened Monday morning with prices that are said to have been pleasing to the growers.

Buyers were on hand from a number of the biggest manufacturing companies and independents, and the "pinhooker" was also present in battalions.

A big crowd witnessed the opening sales. Quantity of weed offered was said to be fair.

First sale indicated averages running around 25 cent a pound. Col. James H. Pearson, of Richmond, was selling as auctioneer and in fine voice. He is as good as any of the imported auctioneers that have been in action here in the past several years.

Among the buyers present were noted W. S. Judy, of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company; W. P. Head, of P. Lorillard & Co.; Fuller, of Liggett & Myers; Roswell, of the American Tobacco Company; Zeigler, of the A. L. Zeigler Company, and other independents.

Among the first sales recorded were these:

"Under Hawaiian Skies"

At Opera House Wednesday

Lester Al Smith presents Dagvid G. Fisher's comedy, "Under Hawaiian Skies" at the Opera House Wednesday night with all the scenic and other stage effects seen in the performance throughout the larger cities in the state. This play is essentially a comedy, constructed to amuse and entertain. It is full of mirth provoking incidents that keep the audience in an uproar of laughter. The author has also embodied a splendid lesson in tolerance in his story—a lesson that is steadily needed in these days of post-bellum bitterness. Why should man hate his brother man merely because he was born in another country or sees fit to worship his Maker at a different altar? Nobody can witness such a play and not come away with a better feeling in his heart for his fellow man.

The editor of the Daily Register dropped in on a meeting of some democrats in Louisville the other day and when he found they were all for Barkley for governor he told them that he was for Judge W. R. Shackelford, of Madison, who would make the ideal candidate that the newspapers have been asking for. Barkley is a splendid democrat and has made a fine record, but no one who has yet been mentioned for governor next year has the qualifications and assets of Shackelford. If Kentucky democracy wants a candidate who will be impregnable to the common enemy and make the sort of chief executive that the great mass of the people want, they will nominate him. The matter of his election would be but a minor detail, he would win so easily. He hasn't a liability as a democratic candidate for governor.

HOW MORTGAGES ORIGINATED

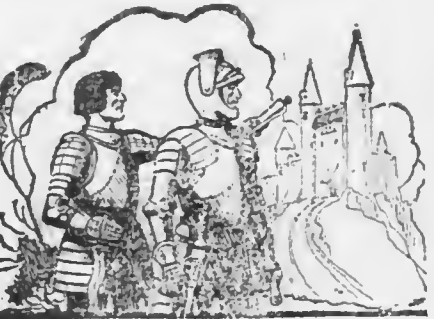

By G. L. Miller

A mortgage written on a clay tablet, secured by vineyards near ancient Babylon.

The Premier Investment—1

Back in the days when our half-savage Anglo-Saxon ancestors first began to borrow, barter and lend money among themselves, the real estate mortgage as we know it today had its origin. The need of some form of security, whereby the lender would be assured that he would be repaid on a specified date, was felt, we may be certain, by the rude business men of Britain long before William the Conqueror came over from Normandy in 1066 and subdued the land, bestowing upon the natives a more refined system of law and business practice. Indeed, the hoary antiquity of the mortgage goes much further back than that. Modern explorers on the site of ancient Babylon have dug up clay tablets on which were recorded agreements from borrower to lender, whereby the harvest of certain fields or vineyards was pledged as security for loans. Mortgages, therefore, may be truly said to have sprung spontaneously out of the experience of the human race, well back toward the dawn of civilization.

A thousand years ago, armored knights mortgaged their castles to raise money.

Our mortgage law and practice of today, however, as I have indicated, trace back directly to the Anglo-Saxons. In the earliest times of which we have a record, two forms of mortgage pledge were clearly recognized. One was known as the "vil-gage" or live pledge. Under this form the lender took title to the property and pocketed all the rents or other income from it, until he had recovered the amount he had lent—presumably with interest. Incidentally, there is a curious modern survival of this idea which the writer, as a real estate mortgage banker, sees in practice every day of his life; where real estate bonds are issued against a first mortgage security it is now recognized as the best practice for the lender to require that a definite part of the earnings of the property be set aside each month to pay interest and gradually to pay back the principal. Thus the wisdom and foresight of our rough forefathers are demonstrated in the scientific practice of today.

The Ancient "Dead Pledge"

The other form of ancient mortgage, the direct ancestor of what we know today, was the "mort-gage" proper, or dead pledge. The name merely meant that when a certain act was performed—namely the repayment of the loan—the pledge was "dead", or cancelled. Every mortgage which now stands recorded on the books of every county Court House throughout the land is based upon this ancient principle.

What, then, is a mortgage? I will not attempt to give a strictly legal or technical definition, which as a matter of fact varies in different states. For the purposes of the investor, a mortgage is a pledge of property securing the repayment of a loan. If the loan is repaid, the pledge becomes null and void. Otherwise, the lender or creditor or "mortgagee" comes into possession of the property to satisfy the debt. It is natural that a device as important as the mortgage, upon which the genius of the race has been brought to bear for centuries, should have undergone numerous changes in detail. It is significant that the underlying principle has remained unchanged from the beginning. In early times, a mortgage conveyed absolute ownership to the property pledged, subject to "defeat" by the repayment of the debt promptly on the day specified. In other words, suppose Athelstane the Saxon lent the equivalent of $10,000 to his neighbor Wulfstan and took a mortgage on Wulfstan's castle and estate, worth say $50,000. On the day set for payment, Wulfstan fails to meet his debt. Under the law of the time, Athelstane automatically became the owner of Wulfstan's property, regardless of the fact that he was receiving $40,000 more than he had lent.

At a very early date, such harsh practice was recognized as unjust to the borrower and was modified by the equity courts. Out of those rulings has grown up, in statute and common law practice, the principle that the mortgagee or lender retains an "equity" in his property. Various States prescribe periods within which the mortgagee may redeem his property after default has occurred. It is also provided that any excess value of the property, over the amount of the loan, goes back to the mortgagee or lender, after the claims of the mortgagee or lender have been satisfied, costs and interest paid, and so on.

Rights of the Borrower

In other words, the mortgage law of today provides a square deal between borrower and lender. It has come to be recognized that the borrower has rights which should be respected, and that, unless these rights are safeguarded borrowing will largely cease and the development of business will be halted, for practically all business of any magnitude is conducted on borrowed money.

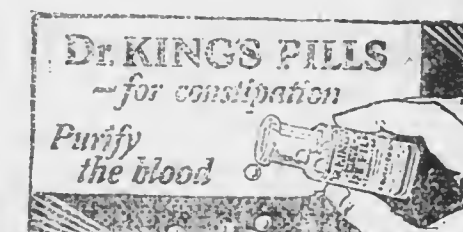

A mortgage, then, as we understand it, is not an absolute transfer of property, subject to a strictly limited "defeat" through the repayment of a loan, but an instrument devised as a pledge to secure a debt. In fact, a mortgage greatly resembles a deed to property. It recites the name of the mortgagee and mortgagee, the amount of the consideration, transfers title in the so-called "granting clause," recites the familiar phrase "to have and to hold" in the "habendum clause," usually (though not always) brings in the mortgagee's wife to make the transfer sale and complete and then inserts the all-important "defeatance clause," stating that the whole transfer shall be null and void if the mortgagee shall repay a fixed sum on a fixed day to the mortgagee. Then follow the concluding clauses, including that beginning "In testimony whereof," and the "attestation clause" bringing in the witness or witnesses.

When a third party is involved, the mortgage becomes a "deed of trust in the nature of a mortgage." That is, instead of the borrower transferring his property as security directly to the lender he transfers it to a trustee, whose duty it is to hold the property in trust until the terms of the deed have been complied with—in other words, until the debt is paid. If the debt is not paid, the trustee takes action on behalf of those who hold the claim or claims against the property.

It is obvious that a mortgage is a remarkable instrument for the promotion of borrowing and lending, providing the most excellent form of security known to man, apart from certain forms of Government credit. How the mortgage has been developed and refined into a medium for the investment of sums of money from $100 up will be explained in succeeding articles.

Thomas—Clay

The Paris Kentuckian-Citizen had the following of interest to relatives and friends here:

The marriage of Miss Emily Harvie Thomas, of Augusta, Ga., and Mr. Cassius Marcellus Clay, of Paris, was solemnized at high noon Tuesday at Cloister Garth, the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Landon Thomas, on "The Hill," near Augusta, Ga. Owing to the illness of Mrs. Thomas invitations were recalled and the ceremony was witnessed by the family connections only. The bridal party was led by the maids of honor, Miss Ellen Thomas and Miss Anne Thomas, sisters of the bride. The ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. Allen Wilson, pastor of the first Christian church of Augusta. Following the wedding ceremony and congratulations a wedding breakfast was served and later Mr. and Mrs. Clay left for a wedding trip. After their wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Clay will make their home in New York, where they have handsome apartments.

Mrs. Clay is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Landon Thomas and is unquestionably one of the most attractive young women of Augusta. Mr. Clay is the son of Mrs. Clay and the late Cassius M. Clay, of Bourbon county, the latter having enjoyed the distinction of being the last president of the last constitutional convention in Kentucky, and one of the best known men in public life in the state. Mr. Clay is a Yale graduate of the class of 1917 and carried off unusually high honors. In the world war he was a first lieutenant in the state artillery and is now a prominent young lawyer in New York City. For the wedding Mrs. Cassius M. Clay, mother of the groom, wore a handsome gown of black thread lace. Mrs. Samuel Stone, of Louisville, sister of Mrs. Clay, wore a black chiffon velvet and Mrs. Frederick A. Wallis, of New York, wore brown chiffon velvet.

Mrs. Elmer Deatherage will leave Wednesday for a few days' stay in Cincinnati.

Miss Aline Drye, of Bradfordsville, Ky., will come Wednesday for a visit to Miss Mary Arnold in High street.

Roland Roberts, who was injured in an automobile accident in Nicholasville, is recovering after an operation at the Lexington hospital. Roland is a brother of Mrs. Earl Curtis and has made a number of friends here who will be interested in the news.

Mrs. Harry Leonard and son, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, are visiting Mrs. Elbridge Broadus and other relatives at Moberly.

Mrs. Robert Duncan, of Kansas City, who has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Million, is spending a few days in Lawrenceburg.

Mrs. E. A. Helms Gains Twenty Pounds

"I firmly believe Tanlac saved my life," recently declared Mrs. E. A. Helms, R. F. D. No. 4, Gastonia, N. C. "I was suffering so badly with rheumatism, neuralgia and nervous indigestion," said she, "that I don't see how I could have stood it much longer."

"My stomach was so weak I could eat nothing except a little milk and bread and many times I could not retain that. I never knew what it was to get a good night's sleep and often I was so nervous and racked with pain that I felt I would rather not live."

"Tanlac helped me right from the start and after taking three bottles many of my friends told me I looked a thousand times better. I told them I felt that way, too, and that it was all due to Tanlac. I have gained about twenty pounds and never felt better in my life."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! Madison Circuit Court,
JOHN R. GIBSON'S ADMINISTRATOR, Plaintiff, vs.
JOHN R. GIBSON'S DEVISEES AND CREDITORS, Defendants.

Pursuant to a judgment and order of court in the above entitled action, the undersigned commissioner of the Madison Circuit Court will on Wednesday, November 29, 1922, at the hour of 11 o'clock A. M., at the mansion house on the premises hereinafter described, will offer for sale the landed estate of the late John R. Gibson, known as "Ellendale," and more particularly described as follows:

This tract of land contains 176.63 acres and has been sub-divided by a civil engineer into four tracts, as shown from the blue print filed with the papers in this action.

TRACT NO. 1—Contains 65.26 acres and on which is located the mansion house and outbuildings. This tract of land fronts the Lancaster Pike, adjacent to the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School and the mansion house and barn are watered from the water works of the City of Richmond, Ky., and lighted from the city lights.

TRACT NO. 2—Contains 34.99 acres and lies east of the property of the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School and is reached by a forty foot roadway leading from the Lancaster Pike in an easterly direction along the south edge of the property of the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School, as shown from the blue print above mentioned.

TRACT NO. 3—Contains 35.48 acres and lies just east of Tract No. 2, and is reached by the same roadway as is tract No. 2.

TRACT NO. 4—Contains 38.89 acres and lies just east of Tract No. 1, and south of Tract No. 3. This tract is also reached by the same roadway mentioned above.

The commissioner will first sell Tract No. 1, then tract No. 2, then Tract No. 3, then Tract No. 4 or enough of one or more of said tracts to bring the sum of $54,000.00. After selling said tracts of land separately the commissioner will then offer the same as a whole and accept the bid or bids bringing the most money.

This property is in a high state of cultivation and is as well or better located than any other property near the City of Richmond, Kentucky, that will be offered for sale in the next fifty years. For homes, and for people who wish to live in and near the Normal School or the Madison High School this property cannot be excelled. It is adjacent to the city limits of the City of Richmond, Kentucky, with all advantages enjoyed by the residents of the city and without the burdens of taxations borne by residents of the city and fronts the busiest and most up-to-date thoroughfare in the city of Richmond. The residence and outbuildings on Tract No. 1 consists of an eleven-roomed, brick colonial homestead with all modern conveniences and in perfect repair, costing over $40,000 and two tobacco barns, tenant house, garage, scales and stock barns and other outbuildings, vineyard and orchard. This property is now ready to be cultivated or put to any use the buyer may see fit. Persons desiring to see the subdivisions can see the same at my office or in the office of the circuit clerk.

TERMS—This property will be sold on a credit of six, twelve and eighteen months, the purchaser or purchasers being required to execute bonds for the purchase money, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent from date of sale until paid, payable to the commissioner. Possession of said property will follow confirmation of the sale, except the residence property and possession of that will be given when the terms of the sale are complied with. A lien being retained on the land sold until said bonds and interest are fully paid.
